EXPOUSER VISIT THE GOAT TRUST, LUCKNOW

Day 1

The training programme commence with introduction of participants and resource persons. Then Dr. Ashish explain how to identify healthy and unhealthy goat. He also discuss about characteristics of good goat such as soft skin, size of stomach, Shiny hair etc. After he mention about health issue and he mention characteristic of goat. He also explains digestive system of goat.

Highlight few points:

- Different parts of goat stomach - Rumen,obemismus,reticulam,omesium.
- Rumen movement- 3 times in 2 minutes.
- Heat cycle- 21 days remains for 48 hrs.
- Pregnancy period is of five months.
- Goat can give birth to minimum 2 kids.
- Respiration rate commonly 12-15 per minute
- Heart beat- 70-80 per minute
- Body temperature- 101-103 degree F.
- Deficiency of blood can be known by eyes.
- Ideal age of breeding buck is 14 months.
- Chest is broad in male goats.

In next session Mr. Sanjeev, Director highlights important activity which can be done by PWDs easily. After that he highlight Kids nursery rearing goat kids of high genetic worth (post milk feeding of 90 days) under semi stall feeding condition for six months and ensure supply of quality goats and bucks in the village and area is key business and breed promotion goat of Kid Nursery. Trained PWDs procure 5 to 10 kids of best quality goats of the village and rearers it under optimum management to get good growth and earns significantly through sale of such quality goats and bucks.

Supply of quality goat and buck is one of essential component to strengthen goat based livelihoods. Ironically as kids of high quality goats grows fast and local butchers pays a higher premium price in comparison to low growth kids, goat farmers most often tend to sale such high quality male and female kids. This depletes genetic quality of goats in the village and large herd size goat farmers are not able to rear kids properly.

Such kids can be reared by landless families under intensive management system and as growth rate is high, Feed conversion ratio is best at this stage. In line to plant nurseries where high quality plants are grown under controlled condition, this concept provides ideal condition to grow such kids and sold as genetic material for further propagation in the area.
